Introduction

Our website is a destination discovery website that helps travellers find the right destinations according to their preferences and help them plan their holidays in a hassle-free manner.

We aim to make discovering your next holiday destination as much of an eye-opener as your vacation itself. We help you break out of the monotony of the same vacation spots you have known for years and open in front of you, a world of possibilities. With our interactive interfaces and powerful filters, you can plan your vacation like never before.

While searching for places to visit, one generally comes across the same bustling hotspots that are common and well known. By doing so, travellers usually miss the hidden sites of any city. We via this website of ours have tried to do our utmost to find those hidden gems that are not found on any other travel site.

We also tried to keep our travel site solely focused on Indian cities, to promote tourism in our country more and to give a glimpse of the actual beauty that the Incredible India beholds.

Project Description

Our website is a destination discovery website that helps travellers find the right destinations according to their preferences and help them plan their holidays in a hassle-free manner.

We aim to make discovering your next holiday destination as much of an eye-opener as your vacation itself. We help you break out of the monotony of the same vacation spots you have known for years and open in front of you, a world of possibilities. With our interactive interfaces and powerful filters, you can plan your vacation like never before.

The front end for the website is built using html, css, javascript and mainly php

While the back end is managed using sql and the project is hosted on local systems using apache servers.

The website enables user to perform following tasks:

- Login to the website
- In case new user, sign up to the website
- Surf through multiple cities across India
- Choose a city that he wants to visit
- Go through all the hotspots that city has to offer
- Plan their trip accordingly
- Log out of the website

At first, the user enters the website a link is provided which takes him to the login page, where the user can enter his email and password to log in to the website.

The email and password fields are authenticated thus the user cannot use wrong details to enter the website.

If the user details are not found in the database, the user is asked to sign up to the website and is redirected to the signup page.

The user can enter his name, email, password that he wants to set and his contact number to sign up to the website.

Even here authentication of email and contact number is performed to make sure the user has entered valid details and have not left the fields empty.

The user information is stored and managed locally on the systems. Language used for back-end is MySQL and the application that enables us to host the whole website locally is Xampp, which uses Apache servers and enables us to setup a connection between back-end database and the front-end. Using phpMyAdmin we can manage our databases pretty easily, even without having extensive knowledge about SQL.

Once logged in, the user is displayed various cities and locations to choose from, the wide array of places enables users to pick a place which can give them an entirely unique experience.

The places shown for every city are hand picked after doing extensive research on the tourism sites and documents provided by the state and central government on those locations. While selecting locations to visit, various factors were taken into account such as the ease to reach the location, visitors population density, popularity of the location among locals, etc.

Also, while searching for ideal holiday locations, we made sure that we bring out the diversity of India in all its glory, by keeping our picked cities diverse based on weather, terrain, population density, how modernised the city is, and various other factors that differ from city to city.

We also added the logout feature so at the end when the user is satisfied and has picked his ideal holiday destination, he can simply logout and all his searches will remain private to him.

We have provided our contact information in form of email id and helpdesk number on the footer of each page so that the user can communicate with us in case of any queries that he might have.

Conclusion & Future Works

The idea for this project was to build a website which enables the users who visit the website to surf through various Indian cities and decide upon their preferred holiday destination. The project also had login and signup features so that each user can have their own personalised experience of the website. The website is made very user friendly to ease the navigation for the users and give the website a unique touch.

As there are multiple other sites that work in the same domain, we have tried to go for the more niche cities and location in an attempt to try and bring out the unknown and unseen beauty that India beholds.

As for the future works, we plan on adding more cities and locations to the website as well various other features like visitors' reviews and panoramic cityscapes.

Also, we plan to make the website even more appealing aesthetically and make the website smoother to run. After which the website will be ready to launch on internet and be available to audience worldwide to use.
